Martine Stig

(b. 1972, Nijmegen, lives and works in Amsterdam)

Photography itself is the locus of my work. The voyeuristic act: photography (verb) and the autonomic product: photo (noun). Whilst using the medium I research it's role in the perception of reality. I employ cliché - a box of tricks that evolved with the profession itself - to manipulate a viewers' viewing experience.

Cultural framing interests me and how visual truths proves to be obverse. I am also interested in the universal need to take and cherish pictures of loved ones.

I have a teaching and research position at Master Photography AKV St. Joost, Breda.
